COPENHAGEN, July 28.

CHRISTIAN Juſen Brahesborg, the famous old man of nineteen, died a few days ago at Arhuus, in the eighth year of his age. He was born in 1654. He lived a bachelor until he was 113 years of age, and then married a widow of forty. He was viſited, during the latter part of his life, by ſeveral perſons of high ſtation.

WARSAW, July 28. A continual cannonading has been heard both day and night on the frontiers, about ſix miles from Bender, from which it is generally thought that Bender is under very heavy cannonading. We have juſt received the following account from Kamieneck, viz. that the Ruſſian General Romanzow attacked the united armies of Turks and Tartars, under the Khan of the Crim Tartars, the 18th inſtant, in their double intrenchments, at the mouth of the Pruth, totally defeated them, plundered their camp, and took thirty pieces of cannon, with all their proviſion and ammunition. The Turks fled in the greateſt diſorder, ſome to Brahilow, and others to Bender.

UTRECHT, August 5. We learn from Calais that on the 9th ult. two Engliſh ſhips of war then lay uppermoſt off that bay, the Governour of the place ſent word to Commodore Proby, who was at anchor there with three ſhips, that he could not admit of more than three ſhips of war at a time; on which Commodore Proby ſent to the Governour a copy of the laſt treaty ſigned between Spain and England, and ordered the meſſenger to inform him that if, contrary to the ſaid treaty, he would not admit more than three ſhips of war at a time into the bay, he deſired he would ſend the Commodore a copy of his orders in writing, and during that time he would order the two other ſhips to keep off at ſea. But the Governour, not chooſing to ſend a copy of the order, the two other ſhips of war have ſince caſt anchor near the three others before mentioned in the bay.

SAN FIORENZO, July 7. The troops which marched againſt the banditti, who are very numerous, attacked a party of them yeſterday, three of whom were killed, and many wounded. Two were taken priſoners, and one of their chiefs, named Paſchal, is among the dead. The reſt have fled to Biſtia, but they will not be permitted to remain there long.

NAPLES, July 17. We learn from Malta that on the 24th ult. five Ruſſian ſhips paſſed by that place, ſteering for the iſland of Milo. Some give out that they have on board 2000 Greeks, who are deſirous to ſettle on that iſland; but others ſay that the above five ſhips have been ſeparated from the Ruſſian fleet, on account of their having a contagious ſickneſs on board.

MARSEILLES, July 27. We have advice that the Daniſh and French ſquadrons are arrived at the places of their deſtination, viz. the firſt before Algiers, and the latter before Tunis, with intention to bombard them. The Captain of a veſſel from Saloniea mentions that he ſaw a Ruſſian frigat off the iſland of Zea, carrying off a Turkiſh galley which ſhe had taken; and that the Ruſſian and Ottoman ſquadrons had engaged off the ſame iſland the 20th and 21ſt, but that the ſucceſs of their combat was not then known. Three tranſports, laden with corn, arrived at Port Mahon, under the eſcort of a Ruſſian frigat, on board of which was Vice Admiral Elphinſtone, but we do not know the reaſon of his going thither.

VENICE, July 7. We learn that Admiral Elphinſtone has ſunk the ſhip of Zaffier Bey, who made his eſcape in a little boat. He took ſeveral others, and diſperſed the reſt; moſt of them diſmaſted, and otherways greatly damaged. We expect ſhortly a particular account of this naval engagement, but we are already certain that the Grand Seignior has ſent orders to the Capigi to ſtrike off the commander's head.

MAHON, July 27. On the 21ſt and 22d inſtant his Daniſh Majeſty's fleet, conſiſting of four ſhips of the line, two frigates, two bombs, two armed ſtoreſhips, and a packet, commanded by Admiral Koas, arrived in this port from Algiers, after having bombarded that place. The Dey informed the Admiral if he would depart with his fleet he would make peace upon reaſonable terms, and accordingly the Engliſh and French Conſuls have undertaken the negotiation. The farther operations of this fleet depend upon thoſe Gentlemens deliberations.

LONDON, Auguſt 7.

IT is a certain and very pleaſing fact that there are now in the ſtorehouſes of Chatham yard, only, utenſils of every kind ſufficient to equip forty capital ſhips of the line.

Extract of a letter from Portſmouth, Auguſt 5.

The following is an exact cataloguet of what we have loſt and ſaved: Burnt, about 150 or 160 cables of different ſizes, all the boatſwains and carpenters ſea ſtores, all the ſtanding rigging for ſhips of fit condition, about 300 tuns of hemp, about 300 barrels of tar, pitch, and turpentine, laying and ſpinning houſes, long ſtorehouſe, block loft, new hemp houſe, carpenter's houſe and ſhop, with the new maſt houſes, and all the capital maſts therein contained. Saved, the rigging houſe and old hemphouſe, tar houſe, and new ſtorehouſe, with the ſtores therein, and half the ſails; the lower maſt houſe, with its contents."

Yeſterday they began to cut down wheat in Hertfordſhire; and by our correſpondents, from different parts of the kingdom, we are informed that if the preſent fine weather continues there will be the greateſt crops known for many years.

It is ſaid that the Dutch have, during the courſe of laſt month, deſpatched conſiderable naval and land forces to their ſettlements at Surinam and St. Euſtatia.

Auguſt 8. As there is reaſon to ſuſpect that the buildings and ſtores in his Majeſty's dockyard at Portſmouth were, on Friday the 27th ult. wilfully and maliciouſly ſet on fire, by ſome evil diſpoſed perſons, unknown; In order to bring to juſtice the perſons guilty of this offence, the Lords Commiſſioners of the Admiralty have promiſed a reward of 1000l. to ſuch perſon or perſons as ſhall, within three months from this time, diſcover any of the perſons guilty of the ſaid offence, ſo as ſuch offenders be convicted thereof, to be paid immediately after conviction; and his Majeſty's pardon is alſo promiſed to any of the offenders, on the diſcovery of their accomplices.

Extract of an authentick letter from Portſmouth, Auguſt 7.

"I am ſorry to acquaint you that ſince the late dreadful fire in the dockyard we have been again greatly alarmed, by an attempt made to ſet ſome other buildings on fire, which had that wicked ſcheme ſucceeded, in all probability the conſequence muſt have been fatal to the greateſt part of the town. It was diſcovered by a boy, whoſe curioſity led him into an old building, where he found ſome cartridges, and other combuſtibles, placed in ſuch a manner that had they been ſet on fire the whole building muſt ſoon have been in flames. It is ſuppoſed the night following was intended for our deſtruction. This diſcovery has thrown us into the utmoſt conſternation; we have doubled our diligence to find out the author of this diabolical ſcheme, but hitherto it has proved abortive.

"We have had ſeveral foreigners here lately, who appear, by their attendants, to be perſons of diſtinction, under pretence of viewing the ruins; however, they have not been ſuffered to take a ſurvey of them, and I hope that for the future they will act in the ſame cautious manner."

Extract of another letter from Portſmouth, Auguſt 7.

"Since the late dreadful fire in the dockyard attempts have been made to ſet fire to ſeveral houſes adjoining to the dock wall, by ſmall parcels of combuſtibles being thrown into the cellars, particularly into that of an eminent diſtiller, where, between two of theſe parcels, a match was found that apparently had been lighted, but was probably extinguiſhed by the dampneſs of the cellar."

A letter received from Portſmouth yeſterday mentions that many threatening letters have been found in and about that place, and that the inhabitants are in the greateſt fear. It likewiſe mentions that nothing material has appeared againſt thoſe people who have been taken up on ſuſpicion.

Auguſt 9. We are adviſed from Hull that a few days ago a perſon who adopted the name of William ———, and in the character had ſtirred ſeveral Gentlemen of that place as a domeſtick ſervant, giving general ſatisfaction, was ſafely delivered of a fine girl, to the great aſtoniſhment of all who knew him.

A correſpondent has ſent us the following, which he aſſures us is an authentick anecdote. "A celebrated oculiſt, who was lately at Ancona, in Italy, being in want of a ſuit of local cloaths, and very fond of cash, ſent for a tailor, and was meaſured, but pretended to diſcover a ſpeck in the tailor's eye, which he ſaid might ſoon end in the loſs of both. The poor fellow was alarmed, and begged the doctor to undertake the cure. This was eaſily effected, the clothes were finiſhed, and the doctor's bill amounted to about five pounds ſterling more than the tailor's.

[illegible] Lordſhip is to have a penſion of 3000l. per annum, with a proviſo of his attendance at Courtſil, and private lyings.

A celebrated engraver, we hear, has juſt finiſhed a print of a great perſonage leaning on the lock of a door on the outſide of St. Alban's, in the character of a fool, with the following motto from his mouth, "I'll take my bible oath I was not on this ſide." The Lady is diſcovered in a ſwoon on the floor, the reſt of the room picturiſquely deſcribed, with his Grace's [illegible] lob lying in the corner. In ſhort, the whole is ſaid to be a very exact picture of a late much celebrated affair.

We are credibly informed that his Majeſty has ſent a preſent of one hundred guineas to be diſtributed among the men who were moſt active in extinguiſhing the fire at Portſmouth dockyard.

We are aſſured, from the beſt authority, notwithſtanding the late diſaſter at Portſmouth, that this nation could, within three months, fit out 90 ſail of the line.

Yeſterday his Grace the Duke of Portland was at Court, and had an audience of his Majeſty, by whom he was moſt graciouſly received. This cauſes much ſpeculation among the politicians.

A French ſurgeon, who ſome time ſince viſited the abbey of St. Dennis, fell upon his knees before the tomb of Lewis XI. which one of the monks obſerving, told him that was not the tomb of a ſaint. He may not be your ſaint, good father, anſwered the ſurgeon, but he is mine; for it was he firſt brought a diſeaſe into France, by which I have gained 150,000 livres.

One of the oldeſt men in England is Fleetwood Sheppard, Eſq; the friend of the late celebrated Matthew Prior, who is now living at his ſeat in Kent, aged 112.

We hear that the departure of her Royal Highneſs the Princeſs Dowager of Wales from Brunſwick is fixed for Tueſday the 18th day of September next, that ſhe her ſuite is to be by the way of Oſtend and Calais; and that the Princeſs of Brunſwick is to ſet out for England at the ſame time.

The preſent fluctuation and falling of the ſtocks is to be attributed to the apprehenſion the ſtockholders are under that Great Britain will ſoon be engaged in a war.

Auguſt 11. When the Miniſter of a neighbouring kingdom, the other day, complained to the Premier of the publick allegations ſo injurious to the honour of his maſter, reſpecting the ſetting on fire the naval ſtores at Portſmouth, he had the effronterie alſo to declare (on being told that no ſuch allegations had been made by authority, and that the reports of the people could not be prevented, and were not to be regarded) that his maſter would not be contented with ſuch an evaſive anſwer, and that if puniſhment of ſome of the propagators of ſuch a libel did not follow this complaint redreſs may be had in ſome other ſhape.

Conſiderable odds were laſt night laid, at the Smyrna, that war between England and France would be declared before Chriſtmas next.

A man is now living at Reepham in Norfolk, aged 106, who a very few days ago mowed a field of graſs belonging to a Gentleman at that place. He ſtoops a little, but does not look to be above 60.

They have an admirable cuſtom in Holland: A debtor remains only 40 days in priſon; his effects are then ſold, his creditors divide the produce equally, and the debtor is at liberty to provide for himſelf and family.

A ſquadron of five frigates, with two tenders, is now getting ready at Chatham, to cruiſe about the French and Spaniſh ports, to watch their motions. The command will be given to an able ſea officer, but no Duke.

We are credibly informed that his Grace the Duke of Portland will ſhortly be appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and that his Excellency Lord Townſhend will be appointed Ambaſſadour to the Court of France, in the room of the Earl of Harcourt, who is to be appointed Governour to the Prince of Wales.

We are aſſured that his Royal Highneſs the Prince of Wales, at theſe early years, gives ſtrong indications of his becoming a great and ſenſible Prince. He is already maſter of the French and Latin languages, in the former of which he has written a letter to his uncle the Duke of Cumberland [illegible] with great and gold lace.

Three Weſt Indian [illegible] have ſtole [illegible] for their benefit, at Ranelagh [illegible] days, one on Tueſday, the [illegible] on Sunday laſt, and laſt night they with [illegible] church.

They write from Liſbon that the Portugueſe have diſcovered a new gold mine in the Brazils, which, [illegible] of the quantity and purity of the ore, promiſes immenſe wealth.

Letters from Germany bring a confirmation of the [illegible] cation made by the Houſe of Auſtria to join [illegible] in a reſpectable, but even a formidable [illegible] conſiſts in the people of above ſeventy years, [illegible] ined, diſciplined, and provided.

We are adviſed that a ſhort time before Lady [illegible] her proctor's, in Doctors Commons, [illegible] Lady, ſuppoſed to be her father Earl [illegible] tions to proceed againſt her Lord for a [illegible] his Lordſhip is for having criminal [illegible] men ſince his marriage, and before [illegible] Ladyſhip. He grounded her proceedings [illegible] made by the very woman with whom [illegible] daily converſed.

A few days ago a ſervant girl, in the [illegible] Tottenham High Croſs, was married [illegible] a farmer, on which occaſion ſhe received the [illegible] but next day they had reaſon to view [illegible] when it appeared the girl's brother in the [illegible] and left her a very conſiderable fortune, [illegible] farmer had previous notice.

Auguſt 14. The King of Pruſſia, [illegible] diamond [illegible] value, of the intendant of Dresden, [illegible] for [illegible] from him by the gentleman, had [illegible] Pruſſia, or any Pruſſian [illegible] delivered to him. Several of their [illegible] purchaſe and bargains, are originally from Pruſſia, [illegible] had demanded [illegible] the queen would [illegible]

They write from Rome that the Pope has [illegible] curious manuſcripts, which have lain [illegible] Veſcian library, to be printed, which is to be done [illegible] inſpection, for which purpoſe his Holineſs has [illegible]

Yeſterday an expreſs arrived [illegible] from her Royal Highneſs the Princeſs Dowager of Wales, which was forwarded to his Majeſty at Richmond.

In a letter lately received from the Princeſs Dowager, her Royal Highneſs ſays: "It is [illegible] I have received in my tour; the great [illegible] theſe are by my relations, and the reſpect with which I was received by all ranks of people, has recalled in my mind [illegible] days, and I really believe will add ſome years to my life.

We hear that his Grace the Duke of Portland [illegible] the other day made him by a great perſonage.

A correſpondent informs that ſeveral conſultations have been lately held by the political phyſicians, who have unanimouſly given it as their opinion, that the preſent Miniſter [illegible] in a galloping conſumption.

The confuſion which appears at preſent in the proceedings for Irish reimburſements is not imputed to a change of meaſures at Court or Lord in the people, but to a change of views in the leaders of the factious ſets which promoted them before; ſome of which have quitted from their buſineſs, and others are at preſent [illegible] to have a proſpect of it from the negotiations now on foot.

The new Ambaſſadour from the Grand Seignior arrived [illegible] on Monday evening.

The expreſſions which Lord Pomfret perſonally [illegible] on the citizens of London, in a certain great aſſembly, were, with great propriety, retorted on himſelf at York, when the verdict was given againſt him: He blaſted like an evil in the proſpect of the ſun, and hung his dejected head like a bulrush.

King James uſed to ſay that whilſt he had the power of making Judges and Biſhops he would make that to be law and goſpel which beſt pleaſed him.

We hear from Tunbridge wells that on Monday laſt his Grace the Duke of Leeds gave a general tea drinking to the whole company, conſiſting of upwards of four hundred perſons.

It is poſitively aſſerted that the King of Pruſſia has determined to take part with the Ruſſians, in caſe the Houſe of Auſtria ſhould in any manner oppoſe the operations of the Court of Peterſburg in the preſent war with the Turks.

Some very diſagreeable news has lately been received from the Eaſt Indies. Sumnero, the renegade General, who a few years ago murdered a great number of Engliſh priſoners in cool blood, and who has remained unheard of a conſiderable time, has at length emerged from his obſcurity, and is now at the head of 90,000 men, committing acts of hoſtility on one of the Nabobs in alliance with us near Madras.

Letters from Poland mention the unhappy ſituation of the inhabitants of Moldavia, who are butchered by the Turks, or made priſoners, on pretence of their being rebels, and reſiſting to the Ruſſians. The truth is, the poor people, having no means of reſiſtance when the Ruſſians entered their country, peaceably ſubmitted, and put themſelves under the protection of the enemy. Now the Turks have entered their country, they would again return to their duty; but the Ottomans refuſe their obedience, becauſe they ſay it is forced, and have hung up a great number of the men, and carried off the likeſt of the women and children into captivity.

There are letters in town which poſitively affirm that after the Daniſh Fleet had deſtroyed the batteries of the Algerines upon the mole a flag of truce was hung out, and that matters were likely to come to an accommodation, by the mediation of the French Conſul. Two of the Daniſh ſhips were much damaged by the ſhells of the enemy.

Yeſterday a mail cart, of a new conſtruction, was brought to the poſt office in Lombard ſtreet; it is ſo contrived as to prevent the mail being robbed or carried off for the future, and will be immediately made uſe of.

Two very experienced engineers are fet out with Lord Hillsborough to inspect into the state of the fortifications in Ireland, and to report them to government.

This morning a man was found shot through the head near Bellowey lane; no money was found upon him.

It is certain that before Lord Grosvenor commenced his suit at common law against the Duke of Cumberland he demanded an audience of a very great personage, and having told his story, added that it was absolutely necessary he should get rid of his wife, but that he was willing to proceed in the way that would be [illegible] to the Royal family, and desired the great personage's command. To this his Majesty answered, in a few words, that he could not then say any thing to his Lordship, as he was an entire stranger to the affair he mentioned to him, but that he should hear from him in a few days. However, his Lordship waited a fortnight without any message; and then, and not until then, he delivered the brief to his lawyers. His Lordship's supposition was that his Royal Highness would have been glad to let him proceed without putting in any defence, which would have carried his Lordship's point with regard to divorce, and prevented much scandal to the parties on all sides.

It is an alarming truth that the Portugal gold, which used to circulate in this country, is now transferred to our colonies; and that the trade for men, which used to supply England with the coin of that country, is now wholly carried on by the Americans. It is said they have shipped, within these two years, wheat, flour, and Indian corn, from these provinces only, to the amount of [illegible], and that many of the merchants of that country are in the [illegible] of persons in the hands of their correspondents in London, by which they clear eight or ten per cent.

Tuesday last a [illegible] attempted to get into the back yard of a [illegible] in Portman street, Portman square. The family [illegible] all the customary [illegible] and civilities, who, coming into the yard, was accosted by him with, "how do you do, my dear? I am come to do myself the honour of dining with you." The young [illegible], knowing that all the doors were fast, and not [illegible] gratifying what he was, thought fit [illegible] very welcome. At dinner he told her that [illegible], and that she must tell him where her mother's [illegible] money was. She told him they were [illegible], to the amount. He would not suffer her to go out for [illegible]; she then went down to the cellar [illegible] unaccountable fate. Dinner being over, but he could not leave the door open; [illegible] the parlour out of the kitchen, [illegible] compassing her. The [illegible], the maid told him she would get him a hammer [illegible] in the hall; whether he accepted [illegible] to cut her above. But the prince [illegible] hammer and chisel were out of his [illegible] him a step ladder; but he took the [illegible] to the door, instantly unlocked [illegible], which drew a number of [illegible] and carried the villain [illegible] to Newgate. He examined [illegible] before the Justices, that his intention was [illegible] to have robbed the house.

The favourite [illegible] no one to accompany the chaise [illegible] only with thinking that the [illegible] and they [illegible] at Ranelagh [illegible] party there) the coachman [illegible] to make her forget the poor [illegible] they all went to Vauxhall, from [illegible] small hour in the morning. In the [illegible] made various efforts to regain [illegible] the hackney maid came to clean the [illegible] (for he was by that time asleep [illegible] discovered the female, and insisted that the closet [illegible] for there was here no human being could be there. [illegible] Lady was obliged to come and release the latter, [illegible] great mortification, is, since this event, nicknamed [illegible].

Account of three important victories gained lately by the Ruſſians over the Turks, by ſea and land.

[illegible] more lucky as to make good their way into the [illegible] much sooner than was expected, as the usual course [illegible] could not be depended on to carry them thither sooner [illegible]. They were not, however, far advanced into this [illegible] on the 25th of July, being 29 ships, commanded by [illegible], they fell in with the Turkish fleet, consisting [illegible] commanded by Zeffer Bey. They engaged each other, [illegible] great ardour, on both sides; and, after an obstinate engagement, the Turks were obliged to yield the victory, and [illegible] their vessels which remained in a condition to effect it moved themselves by flight. It is supposed the Turkish Admiral, Zeffer Bey, was very near been taken, as the vessel sunk in which he was presumed to be, and the commander was seen to get out of [illegible], with great difficulty, into a boat.

The loss of the Turks, in the above mentioned engagement, is three ships taken by the Ruſſians, two sunk, and several others so disabled, in appearance, as to be in danger of foundering before they could reach any port; the rest were dispersed, most of them [illegible] a shattered condition. The Ruſſians have, on their part, received very inconsiderable damage.

The Ruſſian fleet will not at present endeavour to force its passage to Constantinople, on account of the plague's being in that city and neighbourhood; but while it waits a more favourable season it will find very important work, in destroying the remainder of the Turkish marine in those seas, in taking the principal islands of the Archipelago, and in cutting off the supply of provisions from Constantinople.

The Ruſſians had entirely evacuated the Morea before their fleet passed up the Archipelago, having occasion for all their forces abroad, and having answered their intended purpose, landing part of them, for making an embarrassing diversion to the arms of the Grand Seignior.

By an express which arrived by way of Germany, and through Holland, late on Tuesday evening, certain and authentick advice is brought of a most signal and total victory of the Ruſſians over the principal army of the Turks, which happened on the 15th of July.

The particulars of the above mentioned victory (the same day as the sea engagement happened, which is very remarkable) which are hitherto communicated, are these: The Turkish army, commanded by four Bashaws, being upwards of 80,000 in number, were encamped under the walls of Prath, which is in the neighbourhood of Bender; the Ruſſian army, which was very inferiour in number, came upon them unawares, formed the camp, and totally routed the Turks, who fled in the greatest consternation. As the Ruſſians became thus masters of the camp, without the Turks having had the least previous warning, they have taken all the tents, artillery, ammunition, baggage, and other effects, to a very considerable value. This rout is so great, and has dispersed the Turkish army so effectually, that it will be impossible to form them again this campaign.

The King of Prussia (whose genius the world is well acquainted with) has declared that he will, when opportunity serves, strike a stroke that shall confound all Europe, and in consequence place himself on the imperial throne of Russia, a plan from whence he will give laws to the whole world.

On Tuesday night Lord North arrived at his house in Downing street from his seat at Dillington in Somersetshire, and yesterday was at Court.

A letter from Ireland mentions that his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of that kingdom is preparing to set out for England.

By a private letter from France we have a most melancholy relation of the miseries which the provinces of that kingdom now suffer, from the great scarcity of corn. Barley bread is four loves (about 3d.) a pound in Normandy, the most fruitful province of France. This famine has occasioned such riots in many places that great numbers of the unhappy people have been killed, particularly at Chalons, where are only four communes, 600 persons were killed, at Rouen 600, at Valogne 300; the riots have been still worse in Auvergne. The King has no camp at Compeigne this year, on account of the scarcity.

The government at Brussels, having received advice that the [illegible] among the burned cattle was broke out afresh at Aloft and Halle, have ordered all the cattle that any way suffered with it to be immediately killed, as the most effectual method to put a stop to it.

A letter from Nancy, in Lorrain, dated July 30th, says, "The effects of the late storm are felt all over the province. The Meuse, the Moselle, the Meurte, the Seine, and all the other [illegible] overflowed their banks, as well as the brooks that run into them. The harvest ruined by this storm is prodigious, and vast numbers of families are ruined by it."

Without that money is issued from the Treasury to discharge all the demands of his Majesty's tradesmen and servants up to Christmas last, which are now paying.

WILLIAMSBURG, October 18.

ON Monday the 15th inſtant, about one o'clock in the morning, departed this life, univerſally lamented throughout this colony, his Excellency the Right Hon. NORBORNE BARON DE BOTETOURT, his Majeſty's Lieutenant, Governour General and Commander in Chief of the colony and dominion of Virginia, and Vice Admiral of the ſame.

Truly and juſtly to expreſs the many great virtues and amiable qualities which adorned this noble Lord, as well in his publick as private character, would demand the ſkill of the ableſt penman. Suffice it then to inform ſuch parts of the world as were ſtrangers to his tranſcendent merits that Virginia, in his fall, ſorely laments the loſs of the beſt of Governours and the beſt of men. Let his diſtant relations and friends be told that we have all anticipated, and ſhall, to the lateſt period, ſhare their griefs and deep afflictions; and that we condole with them, with the warmth of the moſt tender affection.

Advertiſements.

As perſonal application, to every one concerned, cannot be made, due regard, it is hoped, will be paid to this advertiſement. Thoſe who fail to ſettle in due time muſt blame themſelves for laying me under the neceſſity of bringing ſuits againſt them, without farther notice, as thoſe who ſhow the moſt readineſs to ſettle may expect the greateſt indulgence. The goods on hand will be ſold by wholeſale, on very reaſonable terms, which may be known by applying to.

By the Hon. WILLIAM NELSON, Eſq; Preſident of his Majeſty's Council, and Commander in Chief of the ſaid colony and dominion:

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS I have received information, on oath, that one Thomas Samſon, who was committed to the jail of Glouceſter county, on ſuſpicion of his having murdered John Chevery, mariner, on board the ſchooner Poly, John Corrie maſter, did, on the 30th day of laſt September, break the ſaid jail, and make his eſcape (he is a middle ſized man, about 30 years of age, wears his own long black hair, is pitted with the ſmallpox, and has uſually followed the ſea) to the end, therefore, that the ſaid Thomas Samſon may be brought to trial, for the crime he is charged with, I have thought fit, by and with the advice and conſent of his Majeſty's Council, to iſſue this proclamation, hereby, in his Majeſty's name, commanding and requiring all his Majeſty's officers, both civil and military, and all other his Majeſty's ſubjects within this dominion, to make diligent ſearch after the ſaid Thomas Samſon, and him having found to apprehend and ſecure, ſo that he may be dealt with according to law; ſtrictly forbidding all perſons to harbour or conceal the ſaid Samſon, as they ſhall anſwer it at their peril. And I do hereby promiſe a reward of 25l. current money, to any perſon, or perſons, who ſhall apprehend the ſaid Thomas Samſon, to be paid upon conviction. And I do appoint this proclamation to be read by the ſheriffs, in their reſpective counties.

Given at the Council Chamber, in Williamsburg, the 13th day of October, in the 10th year of his Majeſty's reign.

WILLIAM NELSON.

GOD ſave the KING.

To Meſſ. PURDIE & DIXON.

GENTLEMEN,

I JOIN Mr. Frazer in opinion that the publick have no concern in our private affairs, and I am very ſorry his imprudence (to ſay no worſe) has forced me into this controverſy with him. Nothing but my reputation's being attacked ſhould have drawn me into ſo diſagreeable a buſineſs. I ſhall therefore give this anſwer to Mr. Frazer's piece, and take no notice of his future publications.

Though Mr. Frazer thinks it ungentleman like, I ſhall ſtill aſſert that he did, and ſtill continue, to publiſh falſities to the world; and I am ſurpriſed he did not recollect Mr. Hay could prove it upon him. So far down Mr. Hay's charging him with the account, as he aſſerts, that he demanded my money in his hands for the payment of it, and I was obliged to allow it, on a ſettlement of our accounts laſt winter, without the leaſt deduction for the ball tickets, arrack punch, &c. as Mr. Frazer aſſerts; which Mr. Reeſe, who ſettled the account for me, as well as Mr. Hay, can ſatisfy.

I call upon Mr. Frazer to declare whether he did not receive a letter from Mr. George Eaton, in my behalf, preſſing a ſettlement of our accounts. At the ſettlement I was not preſent (I abſented myſelf to avoid quarrelling, as I knew his warm temper) but left it entirely to the arbitrators to do what they thought right; ſo that my abſence need not have impeded the ſettlement. Mr. Weſt (who is extremely ſick, and weak) I believe was a little miſtaken in his certificate; for my ſon declares he did not touch my books until Mr. Frazer had removed his account.

I am unwilling to hurt Mr. Frazer in his conjectures beyond ſea. I ſhall not therefore proceed to take depoſitions, nor ſhall I animadvert upon his aſſertions, and ſhall be extremely ſorry if he ſhould oblige me to do it. I flatter myſelf thoſe who know us both will make no ſmall difference between the aſſertions of Mr. Frazer and thoſe of, Gentlemen,

DELAWARE, SEPT. 26, 1770. Your humble ſervant, THOMAS MOORE.

WANTED to RENT,

A PUBLICK HOUSE and FERRY, well frequented, with ſome land. Or the tavern at my courthouſe, which ſtands well for travellers, in the lower parts of the colony. Or a good accuſtomed houſe, on any of the branches or heads of the rivers, to which is a ſmall plantation. If any of the above are to be rented, for three years, the owner may hear of a tenant by inquiring of the printer, to whom he muſt make known his loweſt terms, and the ſtate of the buildings, improvements, &c. The rent will be paid quarterly, if required.

NORTHUMBERLAND, October 12, 1770.

I WANT a bale of OSNABRUGS, marked $\frac{N}{B}$ S, No. 7, which was imported in the Eagle laſt May. As ſeveral Gentlemen on Rappahannock river had goods by the ſame ſhip, I imagine it has been ſent, through miſtake of Captain Boyd, to ſome one of them; who will pleaſe to inform me, either by a letter, or an advertiſement in this paper, where to ſend for it. Any charges they have been at ſhall be thankfully paid by 4 ROBERT GILMOUR.

BEING employed by the adminiſtrators of the late John Robinſon, Eſq; to collect the money due for tickets ſold in Colonel Bernard Moore's lottery, and the time of payment approaching, I beg leave to inform the adventurers that in order to make the moſt ſpeedy collection, and for their convenience, I propoſe to attend the following courts, in the months mentioned, viz. At the General Court, and Middleſex court, in December; at Glouceſter, Henrico, New Kent, King and Queen, King William, and Eſſex, in January; at James City, Warwick, York, and Norfolk, in February; at Buckingham, Culpeper, Spotſylvania, and Weſtmoreland, in March; at Hanover, Mecklenburg, Halifax, and Cumberland, in April; and at Albemarle, in May. I will alſo be at, or ſend, to the fairs at Fredericksburg. As the perſons chargeable with theſe debts are ſo diſperſed as to render frequent applications impracticable, and I am particularly inſtructed to give no indulgence, it is hoped they will make payment at the times and places before mentioned; and in caſe they fail, that they will not be offended at having their bonds or notes put into the hands of an attorney.

N. B. No diſcounts againſt Colonel Moore will be allowed.

WILLIAMSBURG, October 16, 1770.

THE creditors of David Galloway, or their agents, are requeſted to be in town by Saturday the 27th inſtant, in order to appoint a general meeting for a definitive ſettlement of theſe affairs; and as it is now apparent that very conſiderable loſſes muſt ariſe from the unavoidable delays already occaſioned by the obſtinacy of a few, it cannot be doubted but every perſon concerned will take care to attend, or empower a friend to act for him. Such meaſures are intended to be made to the according creditors as will effectually put it out of the power of others to injure their intereſt hereafter; but it is earneſtly requeſted that no more miſchievous plans may be adopted for that purpoſe, for they cannot fail of proving fatal to every perſon concerned in their formation.

POETS CORNER.

On LAURA's grave.

BENEATH yon flowery turf the fairest head,
E'er slept on earth's cold bosom, lies asleep;
O earth! enwrap her soft, and o'er her dust
Let every Grace and every Virtue weep.
The Morn, as o'er the misty plain she treads,
Shall sprinkle op the sod her pearly tears,
And o'er her grave shall Eve delight to muse,
While airy dirges sooth her listening ears.
Oft the blue nightly taper's studious flame
Shall weeping Fancy leave, and through the gloom
Steal, a sad virgin, to pour her plaints,
And bend her pensive head o'er Laura's tomb.
Here shall the fire, the sum. due rites to pay,
With silent pace, in sable weeds array'd,
Eye-streaming Sorrow, and deep-sighing Love,
With trailing torch, advance along the shade.
The Muses come, and scatter wreaths around,
Wove'd by the fingers of the infant years;
Remembrance comes, and hence departing loth,
Oft turns the wistful look, and drops a tear.

A YOUNG man, who is thoroughly acquainted with accounts, being chiefly brought up thereto, would be glad to be employed in that way. Upon failure therein, he would engage to teach arithmetick, bookkeeping, land surveying, and navigation, either in publick, or in a private family. For information inquire of the printer.

To be sold, for ready money, on Wednesday the 21st of November next, if fair, otherwise next fair day, at the late dwelling house of John Semple, deceased, in the county of King and Queen,

ALL the estate of the said John Semple, consisting of some acres of land, more or less, subject to the dower of Elizabeth Semple, his widow, to the whole; to the dower of Jeanne Peters, widow of Francis Brisch, deceased, to two acres, part thereof; and for the life of Sarah Roberts, widow, to 30 acres, part thereof. There is on the said land a convenient dwelling house, and all necessary conveniencies, built since the year 1764, a large apple and peach orchard, about 60 bearing on the same, now in the tenure of John Thomas, at the yearly rent of 30 l. a year, seven years of her late term excepting the other two in the possession and tenure of John Walton the elder, and James Walton his son, tenants will. All persons indebted to the said estate of John Semple, deceased, are desired to make speedy payment, and all persons having any demands against the said estate are desired to bring in their accounts properly attested, that they may be discharged. The sale will be continued until all are sold, by

The SHERIFF.

To be SOLD, for several hundred pounds less than was offered about twelve months ago,

THE pleasant and healthy seat of BOSWELL'S, with the stock of cattle, horses, hogs, and sheep; also about 300 l. worth of genteel furniture. Any Gentleman inclinable to purchase is desired to view the land and improvements between this and the 4th of December, at which time I shall be at Botetourt, and stay about a fortnight. Captain Samuel Meredith or Mr. Philip Harden, who live adjoining, will be ready, or any other, to shew the land. It was a mystery to me, until very lately, why this place was not sold before this time; but, from several Gentlemen of undoubted veracity, I have lately been informed that a person in the neighbourhood of Botetourt has taken more than common pains to misrepresent this tract, &c. I refer Gentlemen to a former advertisement in regard to the goodness of the land, houses, &c. and when they have been in they will know what kind of person he must be that, to do me an injury, and quietly, and privately, propagated so many falsities to prevent my selling this place. Of all this land at least 50 l. a tithable, one year with another, may be made. The land I have since purchased, belonging to this tract (which was chiefly sold to help pay for good land I held in Hanover) will be sold with Botetourt. I have been very ungenteely treated by several persons that have long been in my debt; and rather than disappoint Gentlemen I am indebted to, I propose to sell Botetourt for half what it cost me.

A PLANTATION, situated in Nansemond county, distance from Suffolk seven miles, from Norfolk twenty seven. Any one inclining to purchase may know the terms by applying to James Murdaugh in Nansemond, or Bryan Crosbie in Portsmouth. Tf

For SALE, or to be RENTED for a term of years, and entered upon immediately,

THE capital prize drawn in Col. Byrd's lottery consisting of a DOUBLE FORGE and GRIST MILL, at the falls of James river, with two acres and a half of land adjoining, the use of the landing, the canal, which affords a never failing stream from the river, with ten feet of land on each side, as also 2000 acres of land, the farthest part of which is not more than two miles from the works, and estimated to be as good as any high land on James river. As the very beautiful and advantageous situation of this place, part of which overlooks the mouth of the falls, convenient to four principal towns, in the centre of the colony, capable of great improvement, has been so fully described in the plan of the said lottery, I shall only add that all the works were built in the year 1765, and are now in good repair; that the mill has been well accustomed for 60 years past, and known to be worth at least 200 l. a year at present; that the works, lying in the heart of a wheat country, the forge may be converted into a merchant mill, and 100,000 bushels of flour manufactured in the year, and where a saw mill may easily be erected, there not being more than 150 acres of the said land cleared, and all the rest well timbered, which renders it still more valuable. If not sold privately, or rented, between this and the 5th of November next, it will then be exposed to publick sale, or rented, before the Raleigh tavern. The terms, which will be reasonable, any person may be acquainted with, in the mean time, by applying to me, in Williamsburg, or directing a line for me, to be left at the Post Office; and the land and works viewed, at any time, by applying to Mr. Thomas Rootes, who resides on the premises.

Supplement to the VIRGINIA GAZETTE.

OCTOBER 18, 1770. NUMBER 1013.

WILLIAMSBURG, October 18

BY the resignation of the Hon. John Blair, Esq; as President of his Majesty's Council, the command of this dominion devolves upon the Hon. William Nelson, Esq; who has issued a proclamation for all magistrates and officers, civil and military, to continue and remain in all and singular their powers, authorities, and jurisdictions, until farther orders, and requiring them to proceed in the execution of their several duties.

By the post this week from the Northward we have advice of the death of the Reverend Mr. GEORGE WHITEFIELD, at Newbury Port, in New Hampshire government; being seized with a violent fit of the asthma, which quickly put an end to the life of this renowned preacher.

There have been fresh disturbances in North Carolina, by the people who stile themselves Regulators. Col. Fanning, of Orange county, has had his house demolished, and all his furniture broke to pieces, beds ripped open, &c. by these regulating gentry.

FRIDAY, October 19.

THIS being the day appointed for interring the remains of our late beloved Governour, at one o'clock the Church, College, and Capitol bells, began tolling; and the company repaired to the Palace, according to invitation, precisely at two. At three, the corpse being placed on the hearse, the procession began to move, in the following order, to the church, both sides of Palace street being lined with the city militia, and those of York and James city counties.

The HEARSE,
Preceded by two mutes, and three on each side the hearse,
Outward of whom walked the pall bearers,
Composed of six of his Majesty's Council,
And the Hon. the Speaker, and Richard Bland, Esq;
Of the House of Burgesses.
His Excellency's servants, in deep mourning.
The Gentlemen of the Clergy, and
Professors of the College.
Clerk of the church, and Organist.
Immediately followed the hearse the Chief Mourners
Gentlemen of the Faculty.
Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and
Common Council, of the city,
With the mace born before them.
Gentlemen of the Law, and Clerk of the General Court.
Ushers, Bedeals, and Scholars, of William and Mary college,
All having white hatbands and gloves.
And then the company, which was very numerous,
Two and two.

At the western gate the corpse was removed from the hearse, and, carried by eight bearers, the Gentlemen supported supporting the pall, placed in the centre of the church, on a carpet of black. The altar, pulpit, and his Excellency's seat, were likewise hung with black. Then two services (English and an anthem, accompanied by the organ, was finely conducted by Mr. Woolls. The Rev. and Hon. the Commissary then delivered a discourse, from Psalm xlii. part of the 5th verse, Put thy trust in God; which, joined to the deep affliction felt by the whole audience for the loss of such an excellent man, and so good a Governour, drew tears from many. Sermon being ended, the corpse was again placed on the hearse, and the company moved in the same order to the College, entering at the front gate, and so proceeding through the College to the chapel, where the corpse was deposited in a vault, the cannon firing three vollies at the interment. The coffin was of lead, with a cover of crimson velvet, adorned with silver handles, and a large silver plate, on which was this inscription:

NORBORNE Baron de BOTETOURT,
Ob. 15 Oct. MDCCLXX.
Ætat. LIII.

His Majesty's Council, and the Gentlemen of the General Court, have gone into deep mourning for Lord Botetourt; and we are well informed that most of the principal Gentlemen in the colony will do the same, in such general esteem was his Lordship, and so universally lamented.

By Captain Inglis, of the Saltram armed schooner, just arrived from Halifax, we learn that he sailed from that place with Commodore Hood, who was bound for Boston with the ships under his command, and that he was to wait there for Commodore Gambier, who was hourly expected from England, with some more ships, to relieve him. It was said that Boston, in future, is to be the rendezvous of all his Majesty's ships on the North American station.

Sir Thomas Adams, of the Boston man of war, lay at the point of death when Captain Inglish left Halifax.

The True Patriot, Asselby, from Bristol, the Bowman, Stevenson, Argyle, Wilson, and George Coats, from Glasgow, are arrived in James river.

An old servant of Lord Botetourt's, who had lived between fifty and seven and twenty years in his family, died at three o'clock of the same morning with his Lordship.

On the death of a FOOTMAN.

IN service sweet had gentle Knight grown old,
Beneath belov'd command, when he was told,
Your master, Knight, alas! will quickly die.
Will he alas! says Knight, then so shall I:
I cannot live if he must life resign;
When'er he goes his summons must be mine.
This moment, Knight, has born away your Lord:
I follow straight, says Knight, and kept his word.
How good that master! how divinely kind!
Such love who kindled in his footman's mind!
How soft that footman's heart, in whom the love
Of such a master could so fatal prove!
Blush eastern slaves; for you, seduc'd by pride,
To share a master's fate have madly dy'd.
You found yourselves of towering hope bereft,
Or spurn'd a dwindled world your Lord had left:
But true affection, without noise or strife,
Unwifts, a gentle Knight, the cords of life.
He needed not the poniard's boastful stroke,
By silent gratitude whose heart was broke.

LONDON, August 16.

ONE piece of policy made use of by the Americans is worth observing. In order to keep the Portugal gold among them, they have enhanced its value. Every 36 s. piece passes with them for 38 s. 6 d. sterling money; for this reason there are persons here, concerned in the payment of the army, who buy up Portugal gold at an advanced price, in order to be sent over there for the payment of the troops.

When Sir George Macartney was a second time appointed Ambassadour to Russia, and afterwards chose to remain in England, he nobly refused to accept of the 1000 ounces of plate.

Commodore Mackenzie is to hoist his broad pendant on board his Majesty's ship the Yarmouth, at Jamaica.

Yesterday the Prince of Mecklenburg Strelitz, and several of the Nobility, dined with Sir Thomas Robinson, at his house at Chelsea.

The country house wherein Colonel Yorke lately resided, at Walton, on Thames, is taken by Mr. Wilkes, for his residence.

Yesterday Captain —— shot himself through the head, with a pistol, at his house in Ayre street, Piccadilly. The cause of this accident, it is said, was his brother's obtaining a lawsuit against him the last term, which caused him to be melancholy ever since. The jury brought in their verdict lunacy.

In an address to Lord North this day his Lordship is informed that the French have made a requisition of 1500 seamen to be sent immediately from the island of Corsica, which number is sufficient to mingle with almost as many thousands, therefore a greater number is certainly to be employed.

We hear that this morning the new Russian Ambassadour had a conference with Lord North at his Lordship's house in Downing street, Westminster, previous to the delivery of his credentials to his Majesty.

This day being the birthday of his Royal Highness Prince Frederick, Bishop of Osnabrug, his Majesty's second son, who enters into the 8th year of his age, and being a drawing room at St. James's, their Majesties were complimented there on that occasion.

Yesterday, after breaking up of the Board of Admiralty, an express was sent off for Commodore Proby, commander in chief of his Majesty's squadron in the Mediterranean.

A great number of pieces of iron ordnance, of a very large caliber, are ordered to be shipped from Woolwich for Gibraltar and Minorca, and a parcel of old cannon is to be brought home from those garrisons.

They write from Minorca that some Gentlemen of fortune had lately arrived there from England, in order to take the proper measures for the culture of vines in that island.

We hear that a great personage has particularly requested a very able lawyer not to resign yet a while, if his health will permit his continuance in office, with which the latter has complied.

Extract of a letter from York, August 14.

"Yesterday Lord Mansfield passed through this city, for Scarborough.

"A very great and genteel company is expected at our races next week, lodgings being taken for the Duke of Devonshire, the Dukes and Dutchesses of Kingston and Northumberland, the Earl and Countess of Carlisle, besides many other Noblemen and Gentlemen; and by a Gentleman, just arrived from London, we are assured his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland will also be here."

The Earl of Hillſborough's viſit to Ireland (under the maſk of viſiting his ſeveral eſtates) is only to have a conference with the Lord Lieutenant, and to relate, by word of mouth, many things which could not be done by letter, as well from their tedious mixed matter, as that it will alſo be more ſecret.

Auguſt 17. They write from Naples that they had, the beginning of laſt month, in Calabria, an exceſſive heavy rain, which continued without intermiſſion for 36 hours; and, being general, laid waſte all the country.

Extract of a letter of Count Romanzow's, dated July 19th, from the enemy's camp upon the Pruth, on the other ſide of the river Larga.

"After the defeat of the enemy, on the 18th of June, upon the eminences leading towards Bender, our army purſued and came up with them on the 15th of July, when the Turks had fortified their army upon a very ſteep mountain, on the other ſide of the river Larga. The enemy poured down upon us their beſt cavalry, to the amount of 20,000 men, which however were repulſed, with very great loſs.

"As I had intelligence that the Turkiſh army, conſiſting of 80,000 men, was commanded by Caplan Hiry, Khan of the Crimea, who had under him three of the moſt eminent Baſhaws, I reſolved to come to a deciſive engagement with him, which began on the 18th of July, and ended in a moſt complete victory on our ſide; for as ſoon as our men had gained the ſummit of the mountain they drove the enemy out of four intrenchments ſucceſſively, until they fled in the utmoſt confuſion, and abandoned to us their whole extenſive camp, and an immenſe quantity of all ſorts of ammunition and proviſions, together with 30 pieces of fine braſs cannon, and a great number of colours.

"As the purſuit of the enemy by our troops engroſſes all my time at preſent, I am not able to ſend you the particulars of this glorious action, as to the number of the ſlain, priſoners, and trophies, &c. until the next opportunity."

A letter from Paris, dated Auguſt 7th, ſays: "Letters juſt received from Spain adviſe that at the departure of the poſt a ſtrong report prevailed that there had been an inſurrection in Portugal."

A Gentleman, lately arrived from France, gives a moſt deplorable account of the wretchedneſs of that country. He ſays that they have neither money nor trade, and the people are now ſo deſperate as to ſay publickly in the coffeehouſes that their King is a bankrupt. He obſerves that notwithſtanding the grievances we complain of our ſituation would be deemed a paradiſe by them.

We are aſſured that the following is one of the reſolutions agreed upon at a late meeting at Stowe, that no one member of the minority ſhall accept any place whatever, which may be offered to him, without the advice and concurrence of the whole corps.

Auguſt 18. We are aſſured that a great perſonage lately ſent for a certain newly appointed Ambaſſadour, who had aſked for a peerage, and told him that he would very readily beſtow on him that honour, provided he would grant him one favour, which was to be reconciled to his Lady, who, he was well aſſured, was a woman of the ſtricteſt honour and virtue. This requeſt his Excellency humbly begged leave to be excuſed from complying with, and at the ſame time to reſign his embaſſy, which was readily granted.

Twenty thouſand muſkets, with bayonets and horſe piſtols, are now fabricating at Birmingham, for the uſe of two northern powers.

Laſt Wedneſday evening a woman made oath, before Sir Robert Ladbroke, to a man's ſetting fire to Portſmouth dockyard. She had been to the Admiralty Office, and was directed to a magiſtrate to make affidavit of the truth of her aſſertion. A warrant was granted for apprehending him.

Preparations, it is ſaid, are making for the Duke of Cumberland's ſetting out for Germany.

In conſequence of the importation agreement at New York, vaſt quantities of our ſtaple manufactures are ordered for a ſpeedy exportation. The non importation articles are few, and rather calculated to ſave appearances than in any conſiderable degree to reſtrain the mutual commerce.

A letter from Peterſburg ſays: "It is reported here that the Empreſs has, with the concurrence and advice of her whole Court, refuſed to liſten to the many overtures for peace, made not only by the Grand Seignior, but the Ambaſſadours of ſome foreign powers, being firmly reſolved to drive the Turks entirely out of Europe, and even to ſecure to the empire the poſſeſſion of ſome valuable iſlands in the Levant."

On Tueſday the new machine for conveying the mails, in a more ſafe manner than of late, went out with the mail, for the firſt time.

A droll incident happened lately at Kew. A great perſonage was about to mount his horſe ſome one called out, Junius, Junius, here Junius; the great perſonage turned immediately round, when he perceived a little dog, to which the owner had given that name.

During the preſent receſs of Parliament great numbers we hear are gone over to the oppoſition, ſo that on the next meeting it is thought both parties will muſter nearly.

A letter from Hamburg mentions that the politicians there affirm that the rapid progreſs of the Ruſſians will give very ſpeedily a new turn to the political balance of power in Europe.

Letters from Smyrna mention that part of the Ruſſian fleet under Admiral Kennedy had laid ſiege to Rhodes, and were daily expected to carry that iſland, it being but thinly garriſoned.

GOSPORT, Auguſt 10. Saturday Lord Halifax came to Portſmouth and viewed the dockyard, and afterwards dined on board the Tweed frigate. He was ſaluted both by the fort and ſhips, and returned the ſame day to his ſeat in Suſſex. His Majeſty's ſhip Kennington is rigged, and nearly completed for ſea. She is ſtationed at the Weſt Indies, for three years.

CANTERBURY, Auguſt 14. On Monday night arrived here, at the New Rooms, John Wilkes, Eſq; with Miſs Wilkes his daughter, and dined with Dr. Macnamara; in the evening he went to the rooms, where was a brilliant aſſembly. Mrs. Brooke (relict of the late Robert Brooke, Eſq;) very politely made him an offer, which he accepted, of her houſe. On this occaſion many of the inhabitants met at the White Hart, where the healths of the King, Queen, and Royal Family, Mr. Wilkes, Lords Chatham, Temple, Camden, John Sawbridge, Eſq; with many other toaſts, were drank. The bells rang, &c.

On Sunday laſt John Wilkes, Eſq; and Miſs Wilkes, ſet off for the ſeat of John Sawbridge, Eſq; at Ollantigh.

PORTSMOUTH, Auguſt 11. This day was brought in here, by one of his Majeſty's cutters, a ſmuggling veſſel laden with brandy and other prohibited goods. She was bound from France to the coaſt of Suſſex. There were three perſons on board, of genteel appearance, who ſaid they could get no other paſſage, and pretended they were merchants, and were going to ſettle a correſpondence in London, where they immediately ſet out for. Before the ſmuggling veſſel lay to a box was thrown overboard, the contents not known, which makes people here very ſuſpicious of the deſigns of theſe pretended merchants.

EDINBURGH, Auguſt 11. We hear it is in agitation to alter the direction of the great canal between Forth and Clyde, and to bring the ſame into Clyde by the eaſt ſide of Glaſgow, inſtead of carrying it to Dalmuir burnt foot, as formerly propoſed; which, it is ſaid, will ſave about 20,000 l.

Advertiſements.

BERKELEY, October 16, 1770.

RUN away from the ſubſcriber, a mulatto man named NICK, bred a MILLWRIGHT under Mr. Nathaniel Gordon, with whom he worked in many parts of the country. He is a ſhort well made fellow, about 22 years old, round faced, and has a ſcar over one of his eyes. He took with him a pair of leather breeches, a blue ſurtout coat, and many other good clothes. It is ſuppoſed he will endeavour to paſs for a free man, and get into Carolina; but will probably call at Mr. David Meade's, where he has a wife. Whoever delivers the ſaid ſlave to me ſhall have FIVE POUNDS if taken in the country, and TEN if out of it.
